THE COUNTY F M B A.

A Largely Attended Meeting Held in Decatur.

A largely attended meeting of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association of Macon county, was held yesterday in the grand jury room. It is estimated that 500 Macon county farmers were present. Over a hundred came down from Maroa alone. The passenger train was late yesterday morning, so they came on a freight train, and filled three flat cars besides the caboose.

The purpose of the meeting yesterday was to make arrangements with the state association for the purchase of implements and all articles used by the members. The meeting was called to order about 11 by the President W H Russell. Secretary W P Davidson was in his place. State Agent M C Kibbon, of Sandoval, was present, and made the meeting an address about what could be done if all bought their goods at the same time. A resolution was introduced to the effect that the members make arrangements to buy everything through the state association but after much debate that was defeated. Instead a resolution that all agricultural implements shall be bought through the state association was adopted and a committee was appointed to select a county agent who shall do business with the state agent for his county's members. The committee consists of O H Russell, J W Thornhill, H C Montgomery, F J Wargo and Thomas Doyle.

A committee was appointed to make suitable changes in the ritual of the order to provide for rituals to be used at funerals of members.

Another meeting will be held here on the 2nd of April, when it is expected that several new assemblies will be taken into the county assembly and a final arrangement will be made with the state association whereby all the members will buy through it everything they need. They expect to effect a great saving in that way.

THE TIME IS SHORT

Next Tuesday the Supervisors Will Begin Their March Meeting

The park project is enjoying a good share of the public attention these days. There has never been a proposition advanced in Decatur that has met with as unanimous and hearty approval among the citizens. The people are aware by this time, through the columns of THE REVIEW about what the country members of the county board think of the question, and the general opinion seems to be that at least a majority of the supervisors are disposed to do the fair thing by Decatur.

Considerable quiet work has been done by those who have been foremost in advocating a city park, and while THE REVIEW is not at liberty to give the full particulars at present we can say that a proposition to purchase the fair grounds from the county, will be laid before the supervisors at their next session which begins Tuesday, the 11th inst. The subject will be presented with all the earnestness which its importance demands and it is thought that with the proper effort that success will be won.

Mayor Kanan, who has always been one of the most earnest advocates of a park for the people, is determined to make one more supreme effort to obtain the fair grounds for the uses of the public. He has the people at his back and if he succeeds he will leave a monument to his memory that will endure through all the ages, and many generations will have cause to honor his memory. THE REVIEW has taken pains to investigate into the temper of the people on the park question, and we can say frankly, without exaggeration, that among all classes, rich and poor business men and workingmen, there is practically only one voice. "We must have the fair grounds for a park, and now is the time."

Sorry He Did It.

Ira Warnick, a gentleman of 70 years of age, well known in this city and a life-long resident of Boody and vicinity, is ready to disbelieve in the "upward and onward" talk of progressionists. He wanted to come to town the other day, but the roads were too rough for wagon travel, and his son James persuaded him to take the train to Decatur. He had never been in a car, behind an iron horse that spit fire and smoke as he ran, but was finally induced to come, and after his arrival at the depot filled with wonder and delight at his speedy translation from Boody to Decatur, it required but little coaxing on the part of his son to get the old gentleman on one of the beautiful swift running, easy motioned cars of the Short Line, and he found himself at Lincoln square in a jiffy. He was delighted. It was an event in his life to be remembered only with pleasure, and he went home to tell the folks about the wonderful progress humanity was making. He got the grippe however, since then, and he has grown suspicious that steam cars, electric street railways and Decatur's boom caused the trouble, and is ready to caution other unwary Boodyites against going near either of them.

More Work for Working Men

Superintendent E. J. Martin, of the Short Line, will leave for Detroit to-night for the purpose of conferring with the stockholders there in regard to extending the Short Line west on Macon street to Haworth Avenue, as was originally intended. Work on the proposed extensions will be commenced in a short time, and the laboring men of the city will be able to secure employment for several months at good wages.

The Visitors.

The Detroit party is expected to arrive today from St. Louis. Arrangements have been made to show them around the city.

It is not known whether they will stay in Decatur to night or not, but it is hoped that they will, and that they may see the new opera house, and see what Decatur has in that line.

ATTENTION AT HOME

Senator Ingalls not long since received an invitation to attend to his own business. The waspy snapper is down on the bills as a representative of the state of Kansas, but he considers himself elected only to assist in railing at the southern people He is chock full of stories of southern outrage, and never loses an opportunity to tell them in his most violent language He is the man who intimated to the southern negroes that it might be a good thing to form midnight incendiary clubs He has represented Kansas for a long time in the senate, and yet it would be hard for anyone to recall a single word that he ever said in favor of the interests of his state He is noted only for his impudent interference in other peoples business

But the state of Kansas is getting mighty poor Owing to some idiotic arrangement that goes by the name of patriotic statesmanship, the people of that state are actually unable to trade their corn for coal They are compelled to burn their corn while several thousand miners in the country are forced into hungry idleness It is a rather mysterious arrangement but no doubt it must be beneficial in some providential way for we have given it the beautiful name of home market. It would be too bad to have some sour weed bear such a sweet name But the people of Kansas have grown tired of this arrangement They know that they have it in their power to assist in changing some of these mysterious results and they are beginning to wonder why their very smart senator does not try to do something for them

They see that he is still engaged in gathering the southern outrage crop, and so they have concluded to give him a gentle reminder of his first duties The leader of the Farmers Alliance in Kansas has addressed the following questions to Ingalls

1 What legislation if any do you recommend by way of relief to farmers in the present depressed condition of agriculture

2 Do you favor increase in the volume of money? If yea, to what extent in what way do you propose to effect the change and how get the money in circulation

3 In what respect, if at all, and for what purpose do you favor changing the national banking law?

4 Do you favor free and unlimited coinage of silver at present weight and fineness?

It must be worrying to the Kansas senator to learn that his people are not all crusaders against the South for the greater glory and permanence of the republican party His mouth has been open during a good part of the time of this session of congress The same was true of the last three or four sessions The man has talked a great deal and has won for himself a wide reputation He is considered a very useful light in the republican party In spite of all this the people of his state can not tell what he thinks about their industry It seems that Ingalls has been doing a great deal of talking without saying very much The farmers of Kansas would like to know what he proposes to do in order to relieve their depressed condition

The Kansas farmers ought to first inform their Senator very fully as to the depth of their depression He has acted very much like a man who was not aware of any troubles in his own home It may be news to him to learn that there is depression in Kansas So far he hasn't said a word on the subject, and we must suppose that Ingalls would talk if he knew We have seen that the condition of the oppressed and depressed is his specialty. He has always gone into the land of the southern people, a place he hates and where he alone is not welcome, to declaim of the misery that follows injustice He has always found depression in other states than Kansas Those who have followed his career no doubt concluded long ago that Kansas must be a place of heavenly content Its first spokesman and chronic messenger of relief could find nothing in his state that claimed his attention. He was always searching in other people's states for instances of hardship and injustice.

And when he found what he wanted, how sublimely he would throw himself in invective! He would curse the oppressor and allow his fool wrath to advise the weaker side to make an appeal to force And all this time there was misery in Kansas. No doubt the farmers in that state thought that Ingalls would in time get around to their case. They patiently waited for him while he spent years in roaming over other states. They consoled themselves with the reflection that Ingalls was in training during all these years, and that he would be so much the better able to handle their case when he should come to it But another year has come and the depression in Kansas has grown unbearable This is the high time for Ingalls to strike for his own people. Instead of doing this he goes into the southern business more extensively than ever. It is now that the Kansans begin to wonder if Ingalls really knows what state he is supposed to represent They also wonder if he has any ideas about the conditions and necessities of his own people They feel it necessary to inform him that they are in deep trouble, and at the same time they ask him what he intends to do about it?

The questions were put to Mr. Ingalls some time ago, but so far he has not returned an answer He has just fairly started on his southern business, and he hates to give up a moment of his time to his own people As he seems to be so entirely taken up with affairs in other states, the people of Kansas will do well to get some other man to represent their cause And the same thing is true of the other northern states The farmers of Illinois would like to throw a few questions at Farwell and Cullom, if those worthies will only come from under the pile of inglorious debris that covers them We all want men who will pay some attention to our own condition, and a little less to the imaginary and exaggerated troubles that exist in the South. To get such men we will have to retire the professionals whose specialty is southern missionary work at the safe distance of Washington Give us a few men who have sense enough to know that their first duty is to the people who have honored them Just now our condition is not such that we can go into the business of sending out political missionaries We are badly in need of men who have enough honesty and ability to work for the interests that surround their own homes.

UNSEATING Cate, of Arkansas, was as scoundrelly a piece of work as ever party stooped to We are proud to say that Illinois furnished one republican, Mr Hill, who voted against the outrage A dozen other republicans left their seats in order to avoid a vote We await the next returns from the first district in Arkansas

EDITOR CALHOUN, of the H D is of the opinion that Allison is a very popular man in Iowa The shrewd editor is aware that Illinois is a comparatively safe place in which to make such a statement If he will agree to make the statement in Iowa we will pay a handsome figure for an assignment of his life insurance

PERHAPS when Ingalls recommended incendiarism in the south he was only anxious to secure another market for surplus Kansas corn

While you are in the Standard sewing machine office don't allow the bicycle riding of the ladies, gents, boys and girls to occupy your entire time. See and know for yourself the many points of superiority the Standard sewing machine has over all others. Give the Merritt typewriter some notice, and remember we have the best of sewing machine and bicycle oil, also sewing machine needles. You can have various excuses for calling. No charge for admission. No. 110 and 111 library block.

The remark is made, much more frequently than once daily, how I wish I had tried the STANDARD, or frequently, even seen it ran before I purchased the (4) stop and start shuttle, nerve-shaker I now have. The Standard shuttle makes a stitch for every revolution; loop from needle passing entirely over shuttle and bobbin. Millions of money have been spent trying to accomplish what Mack Bros. have in the Standard; it is the only revolving shuttle sewing machine on the market. NORTHEAST DECATUR ITEMS.

The north end of the Fifth ward will furnish the alderman this year, so say the people of both parties.

Ed Knight is spoken of by many for the position of alderman. Mr. Knight will make a good race for the position.

A surprise on Miss Ina Kincaide last night was a great success, and much credit is due Miss Bessie Wilkinson, a little miss of 11 or 12 years, as she so conducted the affair in such a way that Miss Ina, another little miss of 11 years of age, was perfectly and completely surprised when the company of about 20 young gentlemen and misses called and asked for admission. They were met by Miss Ina, who was arrayed in her everyday school dress attire, and invited into the parlor, where music was the first thing in order, after which amusements of all kinds were indulged in. Many beautiful tokens of love were left in the way of presents. Those present were Miss Bessie Wilkinson, Jennie Barr, Edna Haskel, Bertha Lane, Ida Kelso, Bertha Kelso, Gussie Smith, Bettie Lowe, Fannie Lowe, Sarah Duncan, Pearl Kincaide, Laura Trester, Masters Arthur Keith, Roy Barr, Charley Butts, Sumner Pierce, Harry Pierce, Robbie Wilkinson, Willie Smith, Bert Masterson. At the usual hour all voted Miss Ina the boss entertainer and departed for their homes, well pleased with their call. A.

Hurry Up a Little.

THE REVIEW is always glad to receive reports of all social entertainments and it will cheerfully give space to everything of that nature. But there is a suggestion that should be made. When kind friends furnish such items for THE REVIEW they would double the obligation if they would see to it that the report reaches this office at the earliest possible moment. Such reports are read with interest at the time, but after they have passed into the domain of ancient history, a progressive paper like THE REVIEW can't afford them space. Our friends will certainly understand that in declining to print detailed accounts of parties, after four or five days have elapsed, we are only actuated by a desire to give our readers the news when it is news.

AMUSEMENT AFFAIRS.

GRAND OPERA TO-NIGHT.

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg appears not only in concert alone, but also in entire acts of grand opera, given in full costume and stage settings, supported by a company of operatic artists which no doubt greatly adds in interest to her entertainments. To-night the fourth act of "Il Trovatore" will be given.

SPIDER AND FLY.

This spectacular burlesque, which will be given Saturday night, was given Wednesday night at Peoria. Of it the Herald said yesterday:

"The old and familiar nursery rhyme of our childhood, "Spider and Fly," has been turned to account as a tide and background work by Messrs. William Gill and Robert Frazier for a gorgeous pantomime burlesque, such as delights all London from Christmas to Easter at Drury Lane theater, and which Peoria people saw last night at the Grand. "Spider and Fly" are represented by two clowns James R. Adams and Zero Dan, and each contribute unlimited fun by their antics and mischievous tricks. The features of the last act are "The Duel in the Snow," and gathering of the spiders' webs of the story, the tableaux climax transformation scene and the grand march of colonizations troupe."

"LA TOSCA."

In order to play in Decatur and to fulfill engagements in other cities, Fannie Davenport has arranged for a special train out of this city. In consequence of this arrangement the performance will begin at 7:30 o'clock p. m. instead of at 8 o'clock. Theater goers need have no fear but that the play "La Tosca" will be given in its entirety, and the fact that the performance begins at such an early hour insures a complete representation of the play. Miss Davenport's reputation in keeping her appointments is well known and theater goers are on the qui vive concerning the engagement. Prices will be slightly advanced.

Headache And Dyspepsia.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 West 57 street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to billious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, overfatigue, or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, to be followed by a headache lasting to or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation, with Brandreth's Pills. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained three pounds in weight and never have had an ache or pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually ill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once, and new matter should be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and worn out parts with Brandreth's Pills.

Brandreth's Pills are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

Not Yet Decided.

Mrs. Allie Krause, of Indianapolis, who occupied considerable space in Decatur papers several weeks ago, because of her attempt to gain possession of little Fanny Beik, is back in this city for the purpose of instituting legal proceedings and recovering the possession of the child, whom Mr. and Mrs. Beik adopted, a few weeks ago in accordance with the laws of this state. It is claimed that Mrs. Krause has also adopted Fannie in Indiana, and the question of priority will have to be settled by the courts. The girl is nearly 7 years old, and has spent four years of her life with Mr. and Mrs. Beik, from whom she has received the tenderest care, and from whom she does not care to separate.

It is understood that a writ of habeas corpus will be issued, and the present custodians be brought into court to show why the custody of the little girl should not be given to Mrs. Krause.

A New Publication.

"Up to the Time," is a new work just published by Saxton & Andrew and placed on the shelves of the postoffice book store. It is quite interesting and worth examining. A thousand copies were issued, and a number have already been sold.

Broken Leg.

Mrs. Wheeler, an aged lady living on North Water street, slipped yesterday afternoon and broke her left leg. She was taken to her home and a physician sent for, and she is getting along reasonably well.

S.S.S. (TRADE MARK)

Mrs. Geo. P. Smoote, a highly cultivated and estimable lady of Prescott, Ark., writes under date of April 22, '89: "During the summer of 1887 my eyes became inflamed, and my stomach and liver hopelessly disordered. Nothing I ate agreed with me. I took chronic diarrhoea, and for some time my life was despaired of by my family. The leading physicians of the country were consulted, but the medicines administered by them never did me any permanent good, and I lingered between life and death, the latter being preferable to the agonies I was enduring. In May, 1888, I became disgusted with physicians and their medicines. I dropped them all and depended solely on Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), a few bottles of which made me permently well—well from then until now."

It Builds up Old People.

My mother who is a very old lady, was physically broken down. The use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) has entirely restored her to health.

THE ATTENDANCE LARGER.

Two Meetings To-Night if the Same Big Crowd Comes.

The attendance at the union meetings yesterday was the largest it has been at any week day meeting. There is no excitement on the part of either preachers or listeners, but still a steady increase of interest is evident. Mr. Mills preaches with less display of physical effort than any revivalist that has any considerable success. He talks simply and plainly, and appeals directly to a person's sober thought, rather than to his emotions.

THE AFTERNOON.

The afternoon service was opened with the song, "I Love to Tell the Story." A. B. Morey, of Jacksonville, lead in prayer, and then Mr. Greenwood sang "Ere the Sun Goes Down." Mr. Mills read as a scripture lesson a part of the eighth chapter of Acts. For his sermon's text he took Luke xiv:33: "Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple." It sets forth fully the nature of the address, which is regarded by those who have heard all of the speaker's sermons, to be the most able that he has yet delivered.

AT NIGHT.

The largest audience since the first Sunday night, was at the First Methodist church last night. All the aisles and vacant spots were packed with people who seemed to look forward with the greatest composure to standing the whole evening. On the platform besides the pastors of the Decatur churches, were Rev. A. B. Morey, of the State street Presbyterian church, Jacksonville, and Rev. Schultz, of Moultrie county. Miss Florence Adams was at the organ. The choir sang several songs while the audience was assembling.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. James Miller.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Mr. Mills announced that to-night two meetings would be held, if the weather is pleasant. Those who are church members, and come alone, will be asked to go into the lecture room. Those who are church members and come with any not church members, and all who are not church members, will be admitted to the main audience room. In the lower room a prayer meeting will be held, which will be devoted to praying for the meeting above.

To day at 3 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m. the last preaching services this week will be held. The men's prayer meeting will be held Saturday at 9 a. m., at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The women's prayer meeting will be held at 3 in the afternoon. The only service Saturday night will be the one at 8 for the Sunday school officers and superintendents.

Sunday morning a general meeting for everybody will be held at the opera house, beginning 15 minutes of 11. The doors will be opened at 10:30.

Sunday afternoon at 3 a meeting for young people between 10 and 30 years old at the same place. Mr. Mills will preach.

A meeting for men only, at which Mr. Mills will preach, will be held at the opera house at 7:30 Sunday. At the same hour a meeting for women only will be held at the First Methodist church.

Continuing the services of the evening Mr. Mills read a few verses from the 18th chapter of Luke, after which Mr. Greenwood sang, "Where Will You Spend Eternity?"

In Mark x: 21, was found Mr Mills text, "One thing thou lackest." He read enough to show the connection. It was where a man with great possessions asked what he should do to be saved, after saying that he had kept all the laws from his youth up. The speaker said, so long as a man is lacking in the submission of his will to God, he is lacking in everything. In the first place he is lacking in self-confidence. His moral vision is distorted and he cannot see where he is lacking. That was the case with the man who went up in the temple and thanked God that he was not like other men. Now this man who asked, "What shall I do to be saved," did not see one very important thing wherein he was lacking. He said he had kept all the commandments, but he hadn't. He had placed other gods before the one God, and he hadn't loved his neighbor as himself. He thought he had kept them, but he hadn't. A preacher one time at a hotel agreed to preach on a Sunday morning if everyone in the house should be there. The people agreed to ask every one. When the time came, the minister inquired if every one had been asked. The reply was that all but one person, that was the girl in the kitchen, and if he wanted her he would have to ask her himself. He went to do it, but she was so repulsive in appearance that he did not wonder she hadn't been invited. However, he told her he was going to a city and if she would do for him a little thing he would bring her the finest shawl there. The request was that she should every night for a week say, "Oh! Lord show me myself." She promised, and before the week was up she began to look at herself to see what she was. The result was that when the preacher came back she said, "I don't want your shawl, but I do want you to tell me what to do to get away from myself." Then he told her to say, "Lord, show me Thyself." Then he gave her a Bible, and in a short time she was a Christian, happy and better in every way, whom any one would have been glad to ask to a meeting.

Another thing this man in the text lacked was contentment. He was not sure what he lacked. The speaker had never seen any unbelievers who were contented. They might deny and doubt, but they were always annoyed by an "if" that would come in and annoy them. It was so with this man. He knew nothing about that great support that gave confidence to Job, and David and Paul, in all their trials. At the time the Pemberton mill fell in Massachusetts, some time ago, five factory girls were confined by the falling walls in a narrow room. The mill took fire and all efforts to release them were unavailing. The fire crept nearer and nearer. These girls had lately been converted at a meeting similar to this. As the flames surrounded them they began singing "My Heavenly Home is Bright and Clear," and with faces radiant with hope they gave up their lives with those brave words on their lips.

A person that is lacking in these two things, confidence and contentment, is lacking in the third thing, and that is salvation. You can never get that until you believe on Jesus Christ.

Sometimes a man says, "Well, if I live a good, moral life, I guess I will get through all right." Well, your morality is good enough, but it don't go far enough. It's just as if you were to try to jump a ditch 10 feet wide, and could only jump eight feet. What becomes of the eight feet. They don't get you over the ditch. It is as if you were to go to pay a debt of $800 and had only $500. What you had would be good, but it wouldn't go far enough. A ship was in a harbor when a storm came up. Those on it thought the anchor would hold fast and they could ride out the storm. But instead of that the ship was dashed on the rocks. It was found that a flaw had been found in the anchor, and it had been filled with putty and made to look like iron. It was a weak spot that had been overlooked. The whole anchor might have been of putty. That is the way with all. We are just as weak in our whole characters as we are in our weakest spot.

A doctor in a large city was one time called to a young man, a stranger in the city, who was very sick. He said: "Doctor, will I get well?" "I am afraid not," was the reply. Then he cried out, "Oh, doctor, I have missed my chance!" He told the doctor that two weeks before he had been at a revival meeting and had been convinced that he must become a Christian, but had put it off three weeks until he should return from his trip to the city. Now he saw he would not return. The doctor told him of the thief on the cross, and tried to comfort him, but it was no use. He only repeated: "I have missed my chance. The thief didn't let his Lord pass by, but accepted him the first time he came." The young man died unsaved.

Mr. Mills then closed his sermon with an earnest appeal to his hearers not to put off the final decision so importaet to their salvation, until it was too late. He urged every one not a Christian to go to the lecture room down stairs and attend the prayer meeting to be held. Hundreds went and a meeting was held that lasted an hour. Many became converted.

A defective flue in Brawer's bakery set fire to the rear end of the establishment last night, and for a while it looked as though the bakery would go to blazes. An alarm was sounded, and was responded to by the boys of hose house No. 1, but Mr. Brewer and his men had succeeded in extinguishing the flames before the hose company arrived on the scene.

Runaway Boys.

Bert and Harry Osborn "Pony," registered at the Piatt house Wednesday night. They are boys 9 and 11 years old who didn't have any money, and said they had run away from home. They left Peoria Sunday night, rode till their money gave out, which brought them to within 30 miles of Decatur, and walked the rest of the way. Overseer of the Poor Holman received a telegram yesterday from their people at Peoria asking him to send them back. He paid their hotel bill, bought them tickets and they went back, glad enough to go.

Orange Blossoms.

The wedding was a quiet one, only the members of the families present. Rev. A. Willard officiated. The happy couple have the congratulations of hosts of friends and well wishers.

CAPTURE OF AN ABSCONDER.

What Part W. R Bresie, of Decatur, Had In It.

The fact that Fred Walton, of Dallas, Tex., had absconded with $85,000 belonging to the Pacific Express company, and that he had been captured at St. Johns, N. B., is already well known here. Assistant Superintendent Bresie, of Decatur, has been with Superintendent Fuller for three weeks working in Canada to get back some of the money. Mr. Bresie returned yesterday and told a reporter some of his experiences, which were not only interesting but exciting, and would make a very good chapter in a detective story.

Mr. Bresie left Decatur on the 19th of February, and joining Mr. Fuller went on to Montreal, where they were informed that traces of their clerk Walton had been found. Detectives Gross and Carpenter, two of the shrewdest men in their line in the dominion, the former the head of the Canadian secret service, had been at work on the case. They noticed that two well-known Montreal gamblers had taken a trip to Boston and were spending money very freely, much of it American currency in large bills. The detectives arrested them when Messrs. Fuller and Bresie arrived. On their person were found $3,400, all but $400 being in American money. Charged with having gotten the money from Walton, one gambler admitted that they had, but claimed the $400 belonged to his girl. On condition of having that returned and telling all he knew, he was given his liberty.

The gambler then said they had met Walton in Montreal and he had given them $1,500 to help him get out of the country. They went to Ottawa, and there had a time betting on the races, the gamblers using Walton's money quite freely for that purpose. Then they went to St Johns, where Walton had bought a ticket to the West Indies. The gambler told the officers where to find him and all he knew about him, and they went there.

Arrived there Walton was arrested by Detective Gross and placed in jail. The detective found about $5,000 on his person and a key to his valise, which was at his hotel. The detective went to Walton's room without any preliminaries and opened the valise, getting $8,000 more. While he was there the landlord came in and began to kick up a fuss, but was pacified when matters were explained.

About this time Walton's father and Messrs. Fuller and Bresie arrived in St. Johns. The last two demanded an interview with Walton, but that was refused, on the instructions of his attorney, who said he would criminate himself. Then the attorney began habeas corpus proceedings for Walton's release, on the ground for illegal arrest. That was where the excitement began. The express company officers wanted to take Walton to Montreal, because all the Canadian evidence against him was there. The St. Johns chief of police, the local judge and all the lawyers wanted the trial to be held there, and all took sides against Messrs. Fuller and Bresie. The newspapers took it up and devoted considerable space to Messrs. Fuller and Bresie. All took the side of the absconder, except one, which printed facts about as they were. In an interview with Walton's attorney, that worthy told Mr. Bresie to "Remember that he was on British soil," and had better be careful what he said. That was in an interview in which the lawyer accused the express company officers of having property belonging to his client. Mr. Bresie denied that the client had any property, but it seemed that when the detective opened Walton's valise he kept the key, and that was what was meant. The chief of police and the lawyer had actually cooked up a scheme to have the detectives and Mr. Bresie arrested on charge of having stolen property.

After two or three days, Walton was released on the habeas corpus proceedings, but by that time, through his father, an understanding had been arrived at between the young man and the officers. He had become penitent and agreed to hand over $19,000 that were at Dallas, if they would not prosecute him. Accordingly he went to Dallas with Mr. Fuller; arriving there Wednesday. A dispatch in yesterday's papers said he had turned over $17,500. That, with what the officers secured in Canada, $7,800, makes about $25,300 that was recovered in all.

Walton had bought a ticket to the West Indies by a boat that should have sailed on the 15th. It was delayed in getting off, and did not go until the 25th. Mr. Bresie and the detectives got to St. Johns on the 24th. Had they been a little later their man would have gotten away.

Happily Surprised.

Last night several of the friends of Miss Mattie Latham suprised her by their presence at the home of her parents, 818 North Water street, and the evening was spent most happily in music, games, social converse, and last but not least, in discussing the excellent refreshments set before them by Mrs. Latham. To add to the pleasure of the affair, the Eureka Fishing club, composed of R. P. Tullis and wife, L. G. Kaufman and wife, William Beall and wife, William Latham and wife, Miss Laura Tullis and Jacob Latham, Sam and Will Barnes, also assembled for their regular weekly meeting, and they and the "surprising" joined in having a thoroughly good social time. The following persons composed the surprising party:

Pearl Scott, Bertha Hendricks, Bertha Brand, Mabel Carson, Lina Livingston, Louie Harth, Bertha Chamberlain, Allie Smith, Jennie Pensinger, Carroll Livingston, Mort Blythe, Cliff Tullis, Fred Hott, Fred Snyder and Charles Chamberlain.

The New Depot.

Superintendent J. F. Stewart of the American Express company was in the city yesterday and is authority for the statement that Manager Beck of the Illinois Central has said the plans of the new depot have been drawn and accepted and that the Union depot will beautify the desert surroundings of the present getting on and off place before fall.

The American Express company's superintendent has been asked how much room he would want in the building and it is understood that as soon as arrangements are made regarding expense, etc., between the Wabash and the Illinois Central, operations will probably begin.

THE REVIEW congratulates the citizens and the traveling public on the prospects. Everything now points to success, and there doesn't seem to be even a possibility of failure in the matter. The two managers are probably in consultation to-day and will probably come to a speedy and satisfactory agreement.

There will be an examination of applicants for teachers' certificates in my office on Friday, the 14th inst.

A WARM RECEPTION.

Our Illustrated Trade and Industrial Edition is a Winner.

THE REVIEW has had many occasions within the past year to experience the warm feeling of appreciation and good will that the people of Decatur have for a newspaper that is at once fearless, honest, enterprising and aggressive, but it has never in so short a time experienced as much encouragement as has been extended in the past few days to its representatives who are engaged in working up the mammoth illustrated Trade and Industrial edition, which THE REVIEW is now preparing.

One feature of especial interest will be the large number of new engravings that are being prepared by one [illegible] corps of artists especially for this edition. This branch of the plans bids fair to far exceed anything originally contemplated, but the more the merrier, and THE REVIEW intends to give Decatur as creditable a showing as possible, if it takes twice as many pages as was at first expected.

It is only by the united effort of our business men and citizens generally that this edition can be made all that it should be and therefore from four to six weeks of solid work will be put in by our four representatives in preparing the material and illustrations. It is very desirable, however, to receive as early as possible the orders for extra copies, and as it is desired to give the edition as wide a circulation as possible, we hope that many of our citizens will send in orders. If 500 orders for ten copies each are received, it will add 5,000 to the circulation beyond our calculations, and it would be a good investment for each one of the 500. The price will be 10 cents a copy and special rates will be made in quantities of 100 and over.

The success of the special addition is already assured, but by prompt and united action on the part of the citizens of Decatur much can be done to add to its effectiveness as a representative of our city's resources and advantages.

The Demand for Canned Fruit.

A REVIEWER received some valuable information yesterday in which the public will be interested, on the subject of canned fruits. It was G. W. Ehrhart, the wholesale grocer and fruit man, who furnished it, and its reliability is therefor vouched for for what Mr. Ehrhart doesn't know about fruit, whether fresh or canned, isn't worth knowing. Said he:

"The demand for canned fruit is becoming utterly unprecedented. I never saw anything like it, and similar reports come in from all parts of the country. The crop this year will be way short. All the California fruit has been killed by the blizzards and exceptionally severe weather that has been experienced there this winter, and similar reports come from the great fruit region around Baltimore. When both these great fruit centers fail at once, the effect on the supply can easily be imagined. This knowledge of these facts causes a lively demand, in anticipation of the advance in prices that is sure to come."

The Maples Matter.

George Maples was taken before Justice Curtis yesterday to be examined preliminarily, on the charge of perjury, in swearing out a marriage license whereby himself and Miss Mary Maples could be married. The case was continued until Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

It is a queer case at best. Miss Mary Maples was in a delicate condition and George Maples felt that he ought to marry the girl before she became a mother. He did so, and he deserves great credit for having done so, no matter what criminality there is the charge of misrepresenting the girl's age in order to be allowed to marry her. The father of the girl swore out the warrant that caused the arrest of his son-in-law although he knew the girl's condition; knew she would be disgraced by giving birth to a child while still a maid. He says he wouldn't care if George wasn't "worthless." The fact that George desired to save the girl as far as possible by marrying her, is proof that he is not entirely worthless, and it is a matter of regret that he was forced to commit a wrong in order to marry a girl, whose love for him had caused her to part with her virtue, a thing so many young men, who are not considered at all worthless, would not have done even if the way had been perfectly clear.

Dust to Dust.

The funeral of Bertie Ricketts, the 7-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ricketts, of 805 West King street, took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence. Many beautiful floral offerings were contributed, the classmates of the dead boy presenting a beautiful floral harp, and the employes of J. G. Starr & Son's Harness Manufactory, of which Mr. Joseph Ricketts is foreman, presented a floral pillow, and the employes, thirty-six in number, attended the funeral in a body. The afflicted parents have the sympathy of the community.

The funeral of Horace C. Adams took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the family residence, 805 East Herkimer street, Rev. Stringer conducting the services. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

The sad sight of two inmates of the same family being borne to the grave at the same time was presented yesterday, when the bodies of Ida and Oma Stroh were borne from the home of their parents in Hickory Point township to Boiling Springs cemetery. A large number of friends of the family followed the remains to their last resting place.

A Bouncing Boy.

Jim Grinstead, the genial employe of the Consolidated Tank Line Co., was walking on air yesterday. He would sell 1 [illegible] gallons of oil for 1 gallon right along, and his features were worked into beautiful wreaths of smiles, cigars were at a discount and congratulations were numerous. All of this joy was caused by the presentation, to Jim, by his wife yesterday morning, of a 13-pound boy, and any one could be excused for going delirious with joy over such a gift as that. Mrs. Grinstead and the boy are doing well, and Jim will probably recover if given the proper care.

Too Late.

J. L. Stout was called to Mt. Vernon, Ohio, yesterday by a telegram announcing the serious sickness of his father, J. S. Stout. Last night Mrs. J. L. Stout received a telegram informing her that her that her father-in-law had passed away yesterday at 12:30 o'clock.

This Week.

Ladies that are accustomed to wearing a high grade of shoes, are invited to examine the $4 and $5 shoes now selling for $3, at Barber & Baker's.

Why not go round and ask to see those shoes that Barber & Baker are selling for $3.

This is a rare specimen. It is 6 feet above ground, [illegible] wide and 14 feet long, and rests on [illegible] rich black soil, miles away from even the smallest pebble. Where it came from has always been a mystery to the people in that neighborhood. The [illegible] takes up considerable room on land that is worth $80 an acre, and besides that it contains several cords of first-class building stone. So Mr. Merker is going to work on it this week with the dynamite and expects in a few days to have it in pieces small enough to haul off in wagons.
